MONDAY, AUGUST 18, 1834.

THE RIOTERS AT CHARLESTOWN.

A ship from the Bunker Hill Aurora, dated at 8 o'clock, on Saturday evening, says:—We understand that two persons have been committed to jail this afternoon, on a charge of setting fire to the barn and shanty last night. They are Irish, and Hayden, the occupant, is an American.

We also learn that two more persons, charged with being engaged in the riot, pillaging and burning of the convent, have been arrested and committed to jail—one residing in Charlestown, and the other belonging to Cambridge.—Eve. Gaz.

The names of these individuals are Mason and Parker. Eight persons in all have been arrested, besides the two Irishmen.

Of the persons apprehended, Buzzel, Spear and Kelly stand committed for trial. Buck continues to be used as the principal government witness.

Henry Buck, (State's evidence,) belongs to Charlestown, N. H., came last from Hanover, has worked for Mr. Charles Adams, as a farmer, for a month and a half; was present at the burning of the convent, on Monday night last, induced to attend by hearing Mr. Adams, on his return from Boston, state that the Nun was to be attacked. He implicates Mr. Kelly, as encouraging the mob, and furnishing fire from his house. Buck was present at a previous meeting, and saw Kelly, and heard him speak, and advise a postponement of the attack.

Buck himself confesses breaking up the fence to make a bonfire—was the first to enter the convent, and broke in the door with a piece of the fence; saw an engine torch, from which candles were lighted, and the house set on fire—did not set fire himself. He took a small trunk as his part of the plunder and secreted it at Mr. Adams's.

Mr. Edward Cutler gave his statement at length. He was called as a witness for defendant. Mr. Cutler visited the convent on Saturday night; the Superior at first refused to admit him, to gratify his curiosity; but subsequently attended him over the entire building, from the cupola to the cellar, rooms, closets and chests. He was convinced that all was right, and that the Nun was not forcibly detained, and expressed his willingness to make a public statement, which he carried to the office of the Post before sunset on Sunday evening; but they declined publishing it until Tuesday. Mr. Cutler stated that Judge Fay and Mr. Thaxter, of Watertown, who had daughters at the convent, as pupils, were at his house on Monday evening, soon after sunset.—He told them he thought their daughters would be safe. He did not think an attack would be made, although persons began to collect around the gate at an early hour. He also gave the particulars of the escape of the Nuns and pupils.

*On Sunday evenings our paper is put to press much earlier than upon any other night in the week, as is the case with the other morning papers. When Mr. Cutler's communication was received, the form of the Post was entirely made up, and the compositor correcting the last proof—consequently, he was told that his letter, to which no material importance was attached at that time, could not appear in the Post until its next publication.

The Selectmen of Charlestown regret that any expression in their notice of the 13th inst. should have been calculated to wound the feelings of the respected citizens of Boston—particularly as a cordial agreement between Boston and Charlestown is so necessary at the present moment, for the public peace and safety. The object of the notice was to secure the safety of the town during the night ensuing. The mode of expression in the preamble, was not much attended to. It was a moment of great excitement and confusion.

By order of the Selectmen,
DAVID DODGE, Town Clerk.
Charlestown, Aug. 16, 1834.

As we have been requested by some more interested than ourselves in the controversy about Creesy, to refrain from continuing it, we shall pursue the subject no further than to say that the gentleman who accused us of uttering what was "entirely false, and without a shadow of foundation," has published in his own paper ample proof of the falsity of his accusation.

The individual whom it is supposed stole the Chalice, is not an Engineman, as intimated by the Aurora, we believe, although he wore an Engine badge on the night of the fire.

The N. Y. Evening Post, in alluding to the recent Congressional Election in Kentucky, where Messrs. Moore and Letcher are the opposing candidates, says the former has lost many votes by declaring himself in favor of a U. S. Bank, although he is uncompromising in his opposition to the present Bank; for the great body of the Democracy of Kentucky are opposed to the United States Bank on Constitutional grounds, and on the ground of political principle, as well as because of the corrupt practices of the present corporation. The Post then adds:—

"The election of 1832 furnishes the only fair criterion by which we can test the political feeling of Kentucky, as manifested in the present contest: and we shall therefore be careful to accompany the returns of the late election, as they drop in, with the corresponding returns of the Presidential struggle of '32. Tried by that ordeal, the 'victory' in Jefferson county, of which the Bank papers are boasting this morning, turns out to be a spurious triumph of much the same kind as they celebrated in this city, and as they lately pretended to rejoice at in the second Congressional District of Louisiana. Their boast that Jefferson County has never before been against the Administration, does not look well beside the official returns of 1832, which show that county to have given, for Clay 2010, and for Jackson 1552, being a majority in favor of Mr. Clay of 458 votes! Let us keep them to the test."

The U. S. Gazette, of Friday, states on the authority of "private advices," that Letcher, the Bank candidate, is elected to Congress from Kentucky, by a majority of three hundred over Moore, the Democratic candidate. The Bank papers will announce the fact with a proper sprinkling of "ALL HAIL'S."

Thomas, the Jackson candidate in Campbell co., Ky. has beaten his opponent.

The Elections.—The Nationals say that Letcher is elected a member of Congress, over Moore in Kentucky—perhaps he is, but we don't believe it any the sooner because they say so.

Two elections have taken place in Mississippi lately for members of the Legislature; Anti-Bank Jacksonians were elected in both instances. The elections were to fill vacancies, and great exertions were used to carry the friends of Pointed, but in vain. The two districts were the strong holds of opposition.

Mr. Barry will open the Tremont Theatre on the 25th inst., and Mr. Pelby the Warren, about the same time. On Wednesday the School Committee, with such a they may please to invite, will dine, at the City's expense, at Faneuil Hall. Thursday is the day fixed upon by Mr. Durant for another ascension in his balloon, and Friday, by Mr. Comer, for a Concert at Hingham.

The Bank Memorial.—Some of the Boston Nationals, alias any thing else, are quite unhappy because certain individuals, who are opposed to the Bank of the United States, petitioned for a Bank of Fifty Millions.—If those unhappy politicians will just turn to that memorial, they will find a clause in it which was intended, no doubt, to prevent the petitioners from committing themselves on the questions of the expediency or constitutionality of the Bank. It states that Congress having indicated by their votes, a determination to have a Bank—the petitioners present their claims and offer their terms. An offer of TWENTY MILLIONS OF DOLLARS bonus was calculated to awaken the attention of all honest men in Congress to the importance of the Bank charter in a pecuniary point of view—though the Congress men from Massachusetts treated with contempt the opinions, and with hostility the interest of the petitioners—they preferred the interest of the British stockholders to the interest of their own constituents.—If there is to be a Bank, few, we apprehend, would carry their scruples or antipathies so far as to refuse to deal in its stock, if they could make money by buying or selling it.—Even Mr. Randolph, who denounced the Bank as unconstitutional, ordered his funds to be invested in it.

The following cutting and biting sarcasm upon Noah and Webb, of the 52,000 dollar memory, we take from a Boston Whig paper. It is really too bad in the new friends of these venal deserters, to turn and twist them about their purchase money:—

"In New York two of the ablest and most efficient journalists of the whole corps—Noah and Webb—unflinching Jackson men till they found themselves deceived, and the President surrounded by sycophants and knaves—WERE COMPELLED BY AN INSURMOUNTABLE SENSE OF DUTY TO FOREGO THE ADVANTAGES WHICH THEY MIGHT HAVE REaped FROM AN UNION WITH THE GOVERNMENT, AND FALL INTO AN ACTIVE AND ARDENT OPPOSITION."

This "insurmountable sense of duty" will immediately call to mind the 52,000 dollars.

Mutatis mutandis.—Law Book.
Veluti in speculum.—Bible.

The following paragraph, with the exception of about a dozen words, which we have taken the liberty to amend, is copied, verbatim et literatim, from the "organ of the Whigs of Boston," of the 14th—a paper, which takes a great interest in the Maine Elections. We make no comment. The free and independent citizens of Maine, the hardy, laborious, enterprising and intelligent farmers and mechanics, will soon make a decision, from which there is no appeal. We have full confidence in them, and are willing to abide the result:—

"We are pleased to see, by the Republican papers from Maine, that the prospect of electing the Administration candidates is certain. The Wig papers are loud and arrogant in their tone, and lead a spectator to infer, that there is something of affectation of confidence in their boasting. We believe that they fear the loss of the election. There is no trick so pitiful, and paltry, and mean, that they will not resort to it, to further their purposes. The Wig papers have had recourse to most unjustifiable misrepresentations, to deceive their readers; readers, who, it is presumed, seldom see any other papers, and consequently, are unable to see the disgusting cheat. The political gamblers who conduct these journals, are as destitute of honor and honesty as the most abandoned, heaven-forsaken profligates of any college of intriguers, that ever swarmed round the most corrupt court of Europe. * * * They have so long uttered falsehood from instinct, that they can never speak truth; and whoever gives them credit for truth, in their intercourse with a political opponent, will find himself treating the father of lies—miserrably duped, cross-bitten, and overreached. They have neither faith nor truth; and their humanity they might exchange with any tenants of the farmer's yard and be gainers."

Tutti Frutti: By Prince Packler-Muskaw, author of the "Tour of a German Prince." Harpers: 12mo. pp. 226: 1834.

We presume most of our readers are acquainted with the "spice" of this author's variety; we can commend this volume for a goodly share of both. He certainly has the happiest faculty of making a scene of a circumstance, of any one we have perused; and his reflections are not less happy than his descriptions. He gives you, for example, a "meeting on the field of honor" between two grey ganders, where he humbly became mediator, after the manner of Alexander in our late war—and then utters the sage reflection,—"Then am not I also a species of feathered knight, a member of the newly-revived order of Force is Law, but who, instead of drawing a sword, wield a quill [just like us] which in the hands of him who is accomplished in its exercise, [there we plead not guilty—would we were!] which will inflict a wound deeper than that of the sword?"

"Tutti Frutti" means iced fruit, says the translator, but this is so palatable it will soon melt in the mouth. The Prince has one fine sentiment which we commend to the serious reflection of the worshippers of Balm O'Biddle. After passing an affectionate compliment upon his Arabian Rustan, he gravely asks, "Is it not desirable to have some living object upon which to place the affections? Whereas in the present day, both noble and citizen are principally attached to their purses?"

Lectures on Phrenology: By Amos Dean. Albany: Oliver Steele, and Hoffman & White. 12 mo. pp. 252. These Lectures were delivered before the "Young Men's Association for Mutual Improvement," of the city of Albany: they do honor equally to the author and the subject—a subject which a few years since excited only derision, and now thrills us with delight and admiration. When Pope wrote that line so often quoted, and as little heeded,

"The proper study of mankind is man," he dreamt not of a science, which a century afterwards was to make his poetry prophetic, and fulfil the prophecy.—"Mankind" has become a "study," and though now only in its dawn, we look forward to the time when it shall culminate in meridian splendor.

We think all classes may be edified by the study of these lectures. They will exhibit many new truths to which their reason must assent; many old ones to which their experience must bear testimony.—As it is in our line, we commend these pages to the politician; and especially would we advise our opponents to un-teig, and see whether there is any demonstration of "No. 13" in their figured-head. It strikes us, that this, and No. 14, must be "either drove in, or sawed off," as Solomon Swap says.—By the way, the Lectures are illustrated by a plate containing several figured heads.—The teigs will patronize the work, we hope on this account.

POLICE COURT.

Defeated and non-suited.—Henry Wilson's staggering gait, as he slowly staggered through the streets, with a pail of water in each hand, and a pint of rum in his head, very naturally excited the risibles, and elicited the gibes of three North End boys, who requested him to tell them what pump gave such strong milk, as he appeared to have been drinking. Wilson was just elevated enough to be sensitive—for there is nothing like your "plain," for warming the affections, and stimulating the sensibilities—and he resented the sarcastic railery of the young varlets, by cuffing the ears of one of their number; but he might as well have attacked a hornet's nest, as the trio surrounded him, and put it to him like gentlemen, as they are, till he was glad to retreat with a pair of black eyes, and a bloody nose, and present his scarred and wrinkled front to the Court, as ocular demonstration of the dangers he had past.—After making his statement with great simplicity of manner, nothing doubting but that the warrant would be forthcoming, Brown looked up to the Court, with his black eyes, beaming with pleasing anticipations, and desired to be informed when the cause would be tried.

Court.—I shall not issue any warrant.

Wilson.—Well now, I vow, that's queer—You don't mean to insinuate, that I stretch the truth, nor nothing,—because if you do I shall just like to know it, that's all, plaguey quick—I should like to hear your reasons, if you have any.

Court.—In the first place, it appears, by your own story, that you committed the first assault, and second, you are too drunk now, to be permitted to take an oath.

Wilson.—Why, they kind a challenged me, like—and as for my getting drunk, that is another likely story, when I have only taken the matter of a few tumbles.—Besides, if I am drunk; is that any reason, why people should go about the streets thumping one another—that's a new kind of law.—If I hit my body, I've got to pay for it somewhat quicker, I guess.

Court.—Clear out, or you'll be had up for drunkenness.

Wilson.—Well, ye nedn't get mad about it. I got a right to express my private opinion, I hope—and I'll mention that it's my candid notion, that this is a pretty curious city, I don't think, to allow boys to bang grown up men—and you may tell your Mayor that I said so, if you like—God bye.

James Brown left down east last month to procure work in the city; and after bracing his nervous system against the effects of the night air, he perambulated the streets, to see if due precautions had been taken by the authorities, to secure the tranquillity of the city, during the existence of the moribund cholera, but on account of an unspeakable fissure in his unmentionables, and his haggard appearance, indicative of absolute destitution, he attracted the tender sympathies of the watch, and after being marched about from spot to spot, for a lodging, he fell into the fond arms of a constable, who conducted him, with all possible courtesy, to jail.—The Constable introduced him to his honor, as a "genuine city lodger," which assertion Brown indignantly resented, by saying—"I am no city lodger, and have money to pay my way with; or else how could I get any thing to drink; for it ain't likely, any body would trust such a looking feller as me."

Court.—You may go if you'll pay me considerable for taking you up, and procuring your lodgings.

Brown.—Well, I can get a lodging for ten cents, equal to any thing in your jail, and bitters in the bargain, I guess.

Court.—If you are taken up again, this week, I shall certainly send you to the house of correction, upon my word.

Brown.—Upon my word, you certainly won't send me there. [Exit.]

Cholera.—The report of the New York Board of Health, on Friday at 12 o'clock, M., states that within the preceding twenty-four hours there had been reported by physicians, in the city generally, and at the Duane street Hospital, 23 cases of cholera, of which five have died, and four deaths of those reported as cases on Thursday.

The Report on Saturday showed a slight increase of the disease—there having been 26 new cases, and 16 deaths, within the preceding 24 hours.

At Albany the disease appears to have entirely subsided. No cases have been reported for the last two days.

Detroit, Aug. 8.—The health of the city since our last has much improved, though the weather continues warm and oppressive. With the exception of a few cases of cholera which have mostly occurred among the imprudent and intemperate, our citizens enjoy their usual good health.

The Buffalo Daily Advertiser announces the death of C. CLEVELAND, Esq. Editor of the "Detroit Courier," after a few hours sickness. Mr. Cleveland was a scholar, patriot and christian, who has been cut off in the morning of his usefulness.

A serious riot took place in Philadelphia, on Tuesday evening last, which was signalized by some hard fighting between the whites and blacks. The following paragraph from the N. Y. Times, of Friday, contains an account of their renewal on Wednesday night:—

Riots at Philadelphia renewed.—We were favored last evening by High Constable Hays with the perusal of a letter which he received from Mr. Blaney, the High Constable of Philadelphia, written at 5 o'clock yesterday morning, from which we learn, that about half past eleven o'clock, on Wednesday night, the mob recommenced the work of destruction by demolishing in a few minutes a small building on the corner of Small and Sixth streets. Mr. Blaney was on the ground with about twenty peace officers, but was unable owing to the rapid increase of the mob to make any resistance; but he immediately dispatched information to the Mayor.

During this time the rioters destroyed a church and six houses in the vicinity; the furniture was thrown into the streets and there set fire to; indeed every house in the neighborhood which was not illuminated was attacked. In about one hour the Mayor and Captain of the Watch with about 70 men made a successful charge at two points, and succeeded in capturing seven prisoners, and soon after the streets were cleared. At 5 o'clock yesterday morning the city was quiet, but apprehensions were entertained that a more serious occurrence would take place last evening.

The riots were again renewed on Thursday night, but the measures taken to preserve the peace were put into successful requisition. Fifteen prisoners were taken and committed to jail.

The residence of Alexander Wilson, Esq. about five miles from Philadelphia, has been destroyed by fire.—The beautiful gardens and adjacent grounds were also much injured.

From the Maysville (Ky.) Eagle.

ELECTION IN MASON.

	Collins.	Bullock.	Try.	Marshall.
Maysville,	328	204	20	67
Washington,	177	384	21	477
Mayslick,	221	241	113	25
Williamsburg,	111	155	85	64
Minerva,	92	110	00	00
Germanstown,	00	00	00	00
	942	1110	1075	894

The vote of Germanstown was received, but there is no doubt of the election of Ward Collins, Wm. G. Bullock, and John Triplett.

We learn that Mr. Marshall (Whig) in Lewis, Mr. Suddoth, (Whig) in Bath and Mr. Wm. Marshall, (Whig) in Bracken, are no doubt elected.

Murder at Sea.—After from Wm. H. Welsh, now laying at Cadiz, to 7 owners here, details the particulars of a most ferocious murder committed on board his vessel on her outward bound voyage. On the 7th of June last, a passenger, whilst the crew were utterly unprepared for an attempt of the kind, attacked one of them, Henry Irvin, a native of Sag Harbor, Long Island, and stabbed him to the heart. He fell dead instantly. The assassin then turned round and stabbed in the back, but not mortally, the second mate, who was crying out murder, the companion ladder, than he had no sooner got up the ladder than he struck the villain through the side till it struck him through a rib. He repeated the blow and stabbed him again. When the captain fell down from the loss of the cabin's assistance and knocked the murderer down. He was then tied and secured, but on the day before the vessel got into the bay of Gibraltar, and was lay 2 1/2 in a heavy gale of wind, he jumped into the sea and made his escape. The young man killed was of exemplary character, and had sailed with Capt. Briton in the Juliet.

We marvel a little, that the Boston Aristocracy, do not have a Te Deum at the King's chapel, for their victory over the figure head on the bows of the Constitution. During the last war they had a Te Deum, at the King's chapel in Boston for the victory of Great Britain and the Holy alliance—and it was in Boston, where the federalists have been raising a fund to buy up Maine, that the infamous resolution was passed, that it was unbecomingly a moral and religious people, to rejoice at the victories of our own countrymen.—Eastern Argus.

We learn from a passenger on board of the schooner Elipse, arrived yesterday from Jamaica, which left the 30th July, the day before the Emancipation bill went into effect, that there was no expectation of any insurrectionary movement by the slaves. They appeared to be very dissatisfied with becoming apprentices. The slaves on the Orange Valey, Salt Spring, and several other estates, say they will not work. Still however large the number of slaves on these estates, the inhabitants were under no apprehensions.—N. Y. Gaz.

The Little Rock Advocate says: "Four men, charged with committing a murder in Bolivar, Tenn. were brought into this place on Tuesday evening and ironed, and on Wednesday taken on towards Tennessee. We understand that two others were implicated, who have escaped. A proclamation, offering a reward for their apprehension, had been received here by the mail of the previous evening."

Mr. John Goode, sen. a highly respectable citizen of the county of Powhattan, was found dead in his bed on the morning of Sunday the 10th inst.—his body most horribly mangled with a pole axe—and circumstances lead strongly to the conviction that his son, Dr. Thos. J. Goode perpetrated the horrid deed in a fit of mental derangement. He was forthwith committed to jail by the coroner.—Richmond Com.

Penobscot Indians.—On Thursday last, twenty canoes of the Penobscot tribe paddled up the Merrimack to Lowell—the boats probably contained one hundred. It is said they are going to Lowell to have a grand procession. We congratulate Mr. Locke, of the Lowell Journal, on this new accession to his party, for they are famous for their Wigs.—Haverhill Adv.

Lightning.—Two Cows belonging to Mrs. Cogswell, were killed by lightning in this town, last Tuesday afternoon. A barn, containing 20 tons of Hay, belonging to Mr. Morrill, in Methuen, we understand, was also burnt on the same afternoon.—Haverhill Gaz.

The Governor of Pennsylvania has issued an order respecting Felix Murray, condemned to be executed on the 15th inst., for the murder of Sutcliffe, until Friday, the 7th of November next.

Roger B. Tancay.—We understand that this distinguished gentleman is the first Roman Catholic who was ever nominated to a seat in the Cabinet—and the first and only Cabinet officer who has ever been rejected by the Senate.—Penn.

Gold is beginning to be paid out by some of our Banks. The Mayaners Bank, we hear, paid out during last week several thousand dollars.—Ibid.

The Governor's Proclamation.

The Governor's Proclamation was received at our office on Friday evening, at about half past 11 o'clock, and was in type at a few minutes past 12. When we left our office, at 10 o'clock, we gave positive directions to the Foreman to have slips furnished to every one of the morning papers, as we were instructed to do by the Committee of Investigation, let it arrive at what hour in the night it might—but he, supposing that past midnight was a time when every paper would be at press, thought it useless to send round the slips, and accordingly omitted to do it, against our direct commands, and very much to our regret. We hope that the Committee, and our brethren of the press, will be willing to pardon us for our apparent, but unintentional neglect of duty, after the above explanation.

A coroner's inquest was held on Saturday by Mace Smith, Esq., over the body of Thomas Emery, of Bedford, Me., aged 12 years. Verdict of the Jury, accidental death by falling from the schr. Mayflower.
